ANDERSON Foodland has got the naming right as a major sponsor for the Lae Squash Racquets annual weekend tournament.

Anderson Foodland is part of Chemcare Group of company announced the sponsorship yesterday.

The event would be now known as 2013 Anderson Foodland Lae Open Squash tournament where would see players coming from all over Papua New Guinea.

The competition is schedule for November 29 – December 01st and will be staged at the Lae Chinese Club.

This is the first Open tournament for the Lae Squash Racquets Association since 2007, the event is sure to become one not to miss in Lae's annual events calendar.

"As a national company with operations in every major town in PNG, we are truly committed to the growth of Papua New Guinea through education, sports and recreation, particularly in youths.

We are very much looking forward to our neighbors from across the nation coming to Lae for this event," said Daniel King, General Manager Chemcare Group.

President of LSRA, Mr Collin Wongsaid that they were delighted to partner with Andersons Foodland and would like to take this opportunity to thank them for their support, without which they would be unable to attract the best squash players from all over Papua New Guinea.

The association is gearing up for what will be a fun and competitive weekend of sport.
